The historic Hale-Byrnes-Boyce House located near Stanton, Delaware, is an important historic landmark and reminder of Northern Delaware's colonial history.

It is managed by a 501 c-3 non-profit board, the Delaware Society for the Preservation of Antiquities. D.S.P.A. receives no public money for routine maintenance, insurance, literature and publicity, grounds upkeep, snow removal, or flood clean-up. Membership benefits include invitations to Revolutionary lectures and events, reasonable rental fees for meeting space, and the satisfaction of knowing you have contributed to the stewardship and upkeep of a fine example of northern Delaware's colonial architecture.

IMPORTANT: As a cost containment measure, no membership cards are issued. Your canceled check is your receipt for donations. D.S.P.A. is a tax-exempt organization. Members will be notified about our events by e-mail. D.S.P.A. will never share your contact information with outside organizations. Please also invite your friends and colleagues to join us.
